THE 1790s
AN INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM

Saturday 8th September
University of Tasmania
Cradle Coast Campus

Convened by
Dr Mike Davis
University of Tasmania

Sponsored by
British Enlightenment Research Network
ARC Network for Early European Research (NEER)
Australasian Modern British History Association (AMBHA)
The Vice-Chancellor, University of Tasmania
Faculty of Arts, University of Tasmania
School of History & Classics, University of Tasmania

This one-day symposium aims to survey the political, cultural and ideological landscape of the 1790s, with a particular emphasis upon the impact of the French Revolution in Britain and Ireland. Topics will range across issues of social inequality, music and radical culture, the Irish rebellion, anti-slavery and the operation of martial law in Ireland. The symposium will highlight the importance of this turbulent and historically significant period and will capture some of the continuing interest in late eighteenth century studies.

Confirmed speakers include:
Professor John Barrell (University of York)
Professor Gregory Claeys (Royal Holloway College, London)
Professor Michael Durey (Murdoch University)
Professor Cassandra Pybus (University of Sydney)

For further information about the symposium and to register, please visit the British Enlightenment Research Network website (http://www.utas.edu.au/history_classics/bern/index.html) or contact the convenor (m.t.davis@utas.edu.au).
